Facts about Human Trafficking

Trafficking survivors can be girls, boys, women, men, and trans people.

83% of trafficking victims in America are American citizens. (US Department of Justice)

Trafficking does not require international or state border crossing, although it often occurs.

Traffickers can be family members, significant others, acquaintances, managers, or employers.

What is Human Trafficking?

A modern form of slavery. It involves controlling a person through force, fraud, or coercion to exploit him or her for forced labor and/or sexual exploitation.

Labor Trafficking The act of forcing a person to work for little or no money. It includes forced labor in underground markets and sweatshops as well as legitimate businesses such as hotels, nail salons, factories, restaurants, traveling sales crews, construction, farming, and landscaping.

Sex Trafficking The act of forcing, coercing, or transporting a person for the purpose of a commercial sex act. It can occur in residential brothels, strip clubs, via online escort services, brothels disguised as massage parlors, and street prostitution.

Force Physical and sexual assault, confinement, isolation.

Fraud False employment offers, lies about work conditions, withholding wages.

Coercion Threats, withholding legal documents, debt bondage.
